

shoal wallpiece

A group of minimal, stylized forms rendered in a handblown glass meant to compose along a wall surface, to suggest movement and to evoke a shoal of fish. Each individual piece is internally mirrored, giving the piece a polished, reflective appearance. Each has a "mouth" detail produced by the addition of the signature SkLO technique of double-dipping the piece during production and then breaking it hot from the pipe and flame polishing the opening. Every piece is individually handmade, making no two exactly alike. Each piece is individually mounted to the wall on custom brass hardware which holds the piece slightly away from the wall surface. The group of 12 includes a mixture of two sizes – 9 pieces 12" (30cm) long and 3 pieces 16" (40cm) long – giving the final composition an organic feel. Available in 3 mirrored glass colors.
